

THEY PROVIDE WINDOWS TO THE WORLD

Sunrise Windows, Ltd.
Gary Delman, President
Temperance, Michigan

Sunrise Windows manufactures some of the most energy efficient, technologically advanced, replacement windows in the United States. At its unique showroom in Temperance, Michigan, a simple demonstration proves that its exclusive Ultra-U-Plus™ Insulated Glass insulates better than Low-E-glass, double-layered, or even triple-paned products. Sunrise's Ultra-U-Plus™ Insulated Glass can help customers save hundreds of dollars annually on heating and air conditioning costs.

“We produce some of the best looking and most energy efficient windows on the market,” said Gary Delman, President of Sunrise Windows, Ltd. “Our glass offers superior insulation, while our windows are constructed using energy-efficient urethane insulated uPVC, which is superior to aluminum or wood in keeping homes insulated. And our windows when tested to rigid industry standards, outperform some of the country’s best-known window brands.”

According to the National Fenestration Rating Council, and based on the Energy Star approval from the U.S. Department of Energy for outstanding savings on utility costs, Sunrise Windows does make one of the finest, most cost-effective windows available.

Gary, Elliott Delman, and Larry VanDeVelde joined forces to start this business only a few years ago. They all had previously worked at a window company founded by Gary’s father, Ralph Delman. “The replacement window industry is very dynamic and growing,” said Gary. “There is intense competition. We’re successful because we listen to contractors, installers, and consumers. After getting their input, we designed an entire new line of windows to meet their needs.”

Today, Sunrise Windows offers one of the industry’s widest array of products, and unlike other window manufacturers, Sunrise doesn’t just pull stock off the shelf. All orders are custom-made and quickly shipped.

“When our company needed an employee benefit plan, it was an easy decision to work with my long-time friend Dan Steinberg of Savage & Associates,” said Gary. “I’ve known Dan since we were both 10 years old. His family lived across the street. After I graduated from college in 1982, I began working with Dan. He is my trusted business and financial advisor. He helps me brainstorm new ideas, and he handles our business and personal insurance, along with our employee benefits, 401(k) plan, and health insurance. I have confidence in his ability and respect his advice. I value his friendship.”
